CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, WEDNESDAY, MAY 7, 1919

TWO CENTS

COMMENCEMENT DATES ARE FIXED FOR THE CHARLEROI HIGH SCHOOL

Will Begin With Class Play
Friday Evening, June
the 6th

FOUR NEW TEACHERS ELECTED

Commencement exercises of the Charleroi High School will begin Friday evening, June 6th, at which time the annual class play will be given.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. T. D. Rees, pastor of the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, June 8.

The commencement exercises will be held Thursday evening, June 12th. All of these events will take place in the high school auditorium.

These dates were selected at the regular meeting of the school board of the local district held Tuesday evening.

No speaker has yet been secured for the commencement exercises, but Prof. Pollock is in touch with several prominent educators, one of whom he expects to secure for this important date.

The board also elected four teachers to fill vacancies already existing in the faculties of the local schools, as follows: Miss Mary Welch, Miss Robina Gunderman, and Miss Mable Nelson, of Charleroi, and Miss Helen Sharpnack, of North Charleroi. All of these newly elected teachers are members of the senior class of the California Normal and will graduate in June.

No action was taken on the election of other teachers, the Board deciding to wait until the Legislature takes action on the proposed increase in the teachers' salaries, after which the teaching force will be chosen for the local schools and the salaries of the teachers fixed.

The school tax for the coming year was fixed at 20 mills, the same as it is at present.

WILL GO EAST TO WELCOME THE BOYS

W. H. Robertson expects to leave Saturday for Camp Dix, to greet his brother who is returning from France with Co. A, 110th Infantry. The transport, Edgar Luckenbach, on which several units of the regiment are now on the way home, is expected to dock in Philadelphia some time on Friday, and a large delegation of the "home folks" from the Monongahela Valley will be there to greet them. The Monongahela people have already made arrangements to leave Thursday night for Philadelphia, and will arrive there Friday morning, prepared to give the glad hand to the boys as they step ashore. Oliver Gee, of Lock Four, a brother of Capt. James Gee, now in command of Co. A, will also likely make the trip down to assist in welcoming the boys home.

MEETING

Routine Business Disposed

Session

WILL BACK BOARD OF HEALTH

A regular session of borough council was held at the borough building on Tuesday evening, with all members present except Lentz and Van Voorhis. Mr. John Frye appeared before the body and complained of the condition of a stone wall on upper Fifth street. Council directed the street committee to make an investigation of the premises.

W. L. Evans of the Board of Health asked that Council back the Board in the action brought against the Health Officer on account of the ejection case of Mrs. Ketch, who sues for damages. Council voted to give the necessary assistance in defending the suit.

A number of citizens from Lookout avenue made a request that Council do something with the sidewalk on that avenue between Sixth and Seventh street. Council will investigate this week.

The clerk was instructed to notify garage owners that all automobile washing on the streets must cease. It is in violation of a borough ordinance and its provisions are to be enforced. Tax Collector Brady reported collections for April, $109. Burgess Woodward reported March collections of $111 and the borough treasurer reported the March balance as $3,445.43.

James J. Hott, who has been quite ill at his home for several weeks, was taken in the emergency ambulance to the Presbyterian hospital, North Side, Pittsburgh, Monday afternoon for treatment. Chief Albright drove the ambulance and K. W. Daly accompanied Mr. Hott to the institution.

Our Job Department is always busy—there's a reason.

FROM FAILING HANDS

The task of finishing our war job, finishing it right, was thrown to us stay-at-homes from 70,000 failing hands that now lie under the turf on the hills and valleys of northern France.

Those 70,000 Americans gave their lives, all they had. Made the supreme sacrifice in behalf of humanity, of the world, of YOU. With them there was no halting in the face of fire; no turning back before the enemy, no faltering at the thought of what it might cost.

No wavering at the fear that it might entail the sacrifice of some anticipated personal indulgence.

They accepted the duty before them unflinchingly. Went the limit. Covered themselves with glory. But laid down their lives in doing it.

How many of us have come anywhere near doing our full duty? All that we might have done. Lent Uncle Sam every dollar we could spare. Mighty few of us.

Take the question to yourself. What have you done? What are you going to do in this final appeal of your government?

It isn't a question of life with you. Just a matter of dollars.

With Uncle Sam it's a question of honor, of obligations that must be met, of debts that must be paid, of current expenses that cannot be avoided.

A question of whether he will have to take this money from you in taxes—by force, as it were—if you will not lend it.

And could those 70,000 under the turf in Flanders fields know that YOU are perhaps already making up your mind to fail them—

But we don't think you will, it's unthinkable.

It doesn't fit in with true Americanism.

We simply must put this Victory-Liberty Loan over the top.

Newkirk Church To Be Remodeled By Methodists

Specific programs of church extension for scores of cities and communities in the Pittsburgh area of the Methodist Episcopal church have been announced by Dr. Appleton Bash, executive secretary of the Centenary movement in this area, which includes Southwestern New York, Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia. The programs are a part of the $40,000,000 home mission schedule.

In the Washington district the Centenary program calls for the erection of seven neighborhood churches and one parish house and the remodeling of two institutional churches at a cost of $193,500, of which the Centenary portion will be $178,500. Maintenance of twenty workers, five of them directors of religious education provided for in the Centenary program, makes an additional Centenary appropriation of $95,500 necessary.

Among the churches to receive consideration at the hands of the executive committee will be the historic Newkirk church, this side of Bentleyville, which is to be remodeled as a neighborhood church at a cost of $10,000, and a new parish house will be provided. There will also be a superintendent, a language pastor and a woman worker connected with this church.

BOLSHEVIKI FEARED HOME DEFENSE POLICE

Home Defense Police in evidence at Fredericktown Thursday last are believed to have prevented a demonstration of the red flag of Socialism in connection with a meeting of the Reds there. Probably 200 men crowded Owls' hall to hear an address by Charles Sells, late candidate of the Socialist party for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Between 60 and 80 men boarded the train at Centerville wearing red buttons. These alighted at Fredericktown and marched to the hall. Red neckties were also in evidence.

MARINES ARE HERE TODAY

Will Give Exhibition This Evening At 8 O'clock
At Ball Park

SHAM BATTLE TO BE FEATURE

The detachment of United States Marines, in command of Lieut. Irving arrived in Charleroi on the 12:30 train from Pittsburg. They were met at Monongahela by D. R. Hornell, representing Chairman Daily who, upon their arrival in Charleroi, escorted them to the Hotel Wilbur, for lunch. This afternoon the detachment visited Roscoe, where they gave an exhibition, after which they returned to Charleroi and prepared for the exhibition to be given this evening.

As the exhibition is to be given at the ball park there may be some slight change in the program the general committee has outlined for the Marines, but the departures will be unimportant.

However, there may be a camp scene to be followed by a bayonet drill. Then it is likely a sham battle will be staged.

One detachment takes position for defense of certain point. Second detachment goes to designated point for preparation.

Then follows a sham battle of possibly twenty minutes.

Marines close battle with formation of fighting square, firing over heads of spectators.

Then form company front as if to prepare for other maneuvers, and if there is to be speaking it will take place at this time.

This program will depend upon the character of the weather.

Millinery Sale. Biggest bargains ever offered in hats. Over 400 to choose from. Price $1.95 and up. Sale begins Friday May 9 and lasts two weeks. Evans Millinery, 323 McKean avenue. 284-t3*

Hard Work Necessary If
Local District Is To Reach
The Mark

INCREASED ACTIVITY REQUIRED

Charleroi area is "ONLY" $387,550 behind its quota for the Victory Liberty Loan. These figures are taken from the various bank quotas in this area, which includes Roscoe. The total for this area is $939,500, of which amount there were reported sales Tuesday night at all of the banks of $251,950, leaving a shortage at this time of the amount named above. Charleroi's individual quota is $560,700, and even the total subscriptions for the area is not equal to one-half this amount.

As there are but three more days in which to make subscriptions to this loan, it is evident that some intensive work must be done between now and Saturday night, when the campaign closes. Counting today, we must average $171,887 in sales each day until Saturday night in order to reach our local quota. This is going to take a great deal of work on the part of every member of every committee selected for this campaign. We are at the point now where a showdown must be made.

Chairman Berryman this morning, in speaking of the committee of Seventy said their duties were to assist in every way to gather in subscriptions. This may mean taking time off from business, but as the remaining days of the campaign are few, it is urgent that they be actively engaged along with other workers for the balance of the week.

Mr. Berryman especially desires all of them to report at the Hotel Wilbur this evening to assist in entertaining the members of the Marine Corps, who are our guests today. Announcements of any special work for this committee will be announced through the press, and they are asked to follow the paper closely for assignments.

Just now the specific thing needed is work, and it must be contributed by every committee member if results are to be obtained.

Beginning May 1 all union-Barber Shops will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. except on Saturdays when they will open at 8 a. m. and close at 9:30 p. m. 265-t26p

McVay's Dance, Might's Hall, Friday night, May 9th and 23rd. Beginning class 7:30 to 9. Advance 9 to 12. Assessment 50 cents, war tax included. 284-t2p*

Notice. Teachers for the Dunlevy School will be elected on first Monday in June. Applications will be received by A. Colvin, Secretary. 284-t3

TEACHING BOLSHEVISM

Is Bolshevism to be inculcated, or is the truth about Bolshevism to be taught in American public schools? The question is timely and pertinent, not only in itself but as a part of a much larger problem concerning American patriotism and American education.

It has been disclosed that there are in some of our large cities so-called "Sunday Schools" — because they meet on that day — devoted to the teaching of revolutionary doctrines variously described as Socialist, Bolshevik and Soviet. Children of tender years are being systematically taught that American principles of government are all wrong and are to be opposed and resisted, and that the vagaries of alien agitators are to be preferred and adopted in their place. That is an infamous thing, and it is a serious question to what extent it might be permitted.

But there can be no question that the existence and activities of such agencies of disloyalty make it all the more obligatory upon us to see to it not only that the teaching in our public schools is soundly American but that it is also aggressively American. The former assurance ought not to be necessary, but it is. It has become notorious that in New York City, for example, there are not a few public school teachers whose loyalty to American democracy is by no means above question. Some of them are Bolshevik or other alien principles to their pupils. They have even formed an extensive organization for the purpose of promoting un-American propaganda in American schools.

This is scandalous, and should be radically corrected. But that is not all that should be done. There is no use in casting out devils if the room is left empty and swept and garnished for other devils to enter at will. We need not merely to suppose disloyal teaching but also to promote aggressive loyal teaching; and just now it seems highly desirable to reach the truth about Bolshevism.

Children hear about the thing and wonder what it is. If nobody else tells them the truth about it, they presently hear some soap box orator or some half-baked parlor Bolshevik, extolling it as the Beauty of Holiness. So they get the impression that it is a new and improved form of government, which ought to be adopted here in place of our bourgeois democracy. The mischief that may be done is incalculable.

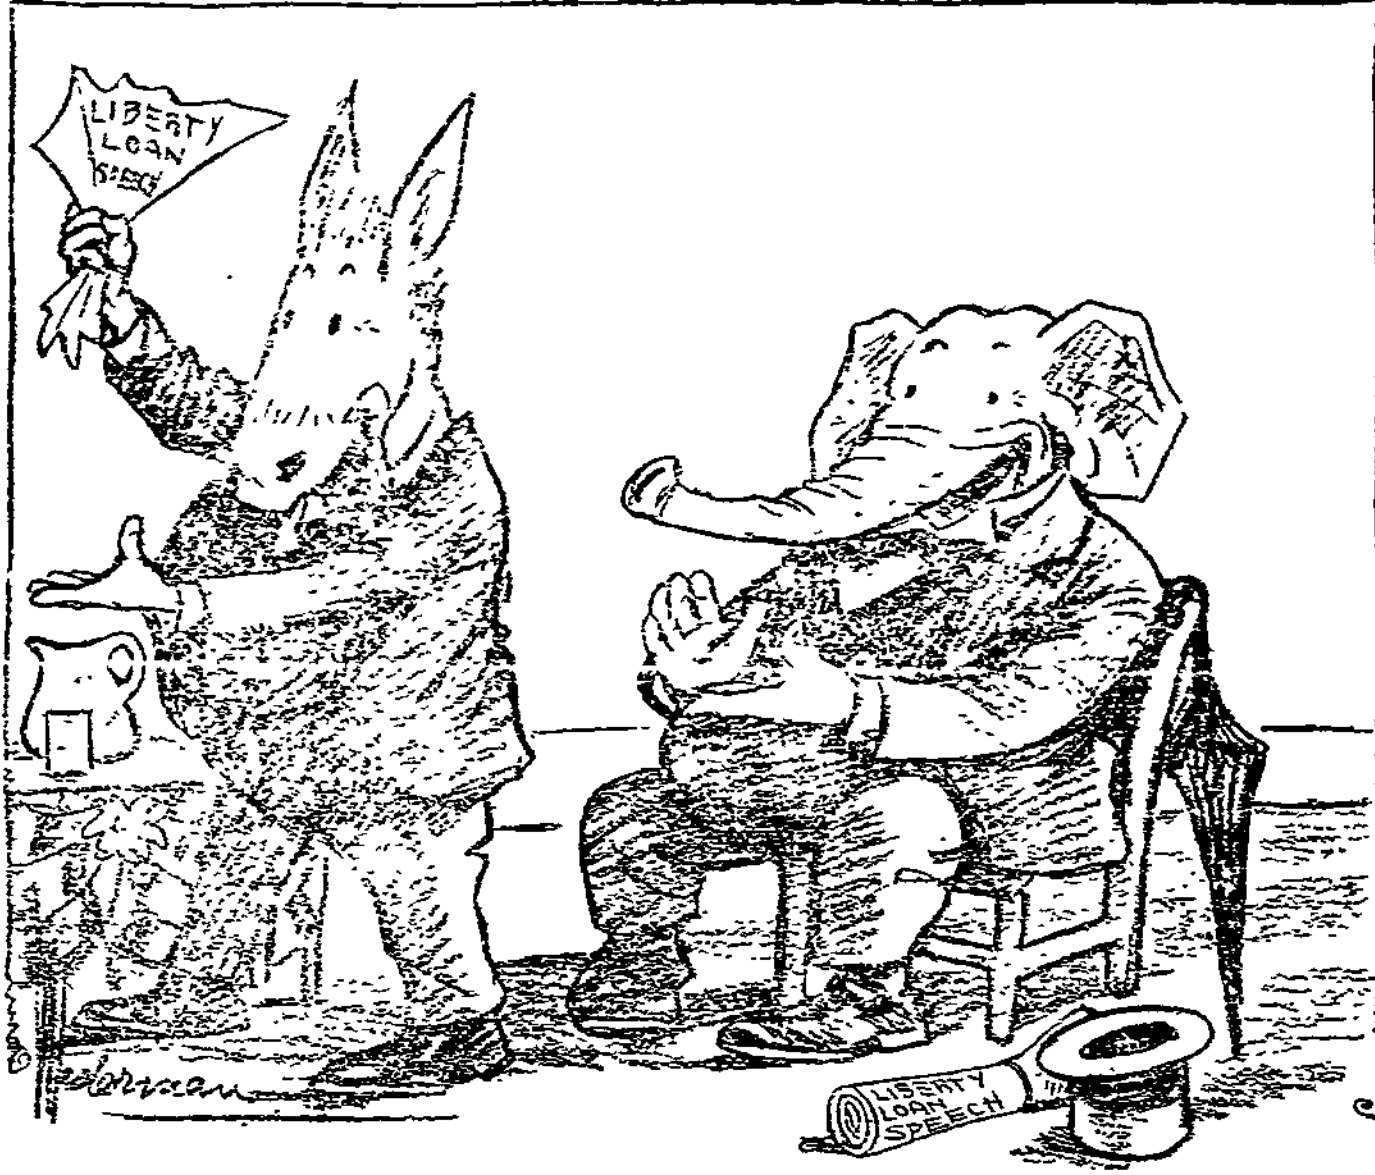

It should be met and dealt with not passively but actively. Pains should be taken, no labor should be spared, not merely to avoid giving false impressions of Bolshevism, but also to insure the giving of correct impressions. It should be incumbent, compulsory in every public school to teach to the children what the thing really is, how dishonest it is and how unclean, and how hostile and repugnant to every American principle. Dog-berry might say that "reading and writing comes by nature," but in these times with so much pernicious propaganda extant, it would be folly to trust to nature to make sound citizens of our boys and girls. They need to be taught to love America and American principles, and to such teaching the logical corollary is that they must be taught to hate and to renounce Bolshevism and all its works. —Harper's Weekly.

The House at Harrisburg on Monday night, passed the bill providing for a reorganization of the State Police into a department, and adding an additional company of 87 men. The awful crime near Latrobe, in which a young woman school teacher lost her life at the hands of a couple of rascals and which was unearthed by the State Police, was instrumental in the favorable action taken on the bill. It now goes to the Senate, where its chances of passage are very bright. Should this be the case it is expected that Governor Sproul will sign the measure.

JOE GASS TELLS OF THE RESERVE MALLET

The following is a copy of a letter from Private Joseph L. Gass of the 368th Motor Truck Company, Reserve Mallet, who is still serving in France with the American Expeditionary Forces:—

Maubenge, France,

March 24, 1919.

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines this beautiful afternoon. Yesterday and today were just about as nice days as we have had for quite awhile. The sun is out and no signs of rain, and that is something new for this side of the world. I sent a box of souvenirs home the first of this month. The box contained the following: 2 brass German 77s or 81s shells, 1 French 37; 1 Boche Officer's Dress Helmet, 4 Boche Caps, Bunch of French, English, Belgian and Boche Buttons, 1 Bracelet taken off a dead Algerian, 2 Boche Belts and Buckles, 3 Brass Caps for 19 in. Boche Gun, part of a Machine Gun Belt, some Spoons, 2 Shoulder Straps from Boche coats, a Signal Pistol and a few other little trinkets.

The following is a little bit of army poetry which makes a hit with me boys:—

After the war is over,
After I get back home.
I have but one ambition
Under the heaven's dome.

After the war is over,
(That is, if I'm not dead)
I shall be happy all over
I'm going to bed in a BED.

We are supposed to move back to Sedan but the roads are so bad that we can't trail our stuff and here we remain in a deserted village. The roads are worse than the Narrows just out of Monongahela. When you are driving you swear that someone moved all the hoies in front of you. On Friday I was out on a trip with my new ton truck and almost got stuck coming down a 27 per cent grade in low gear. When I get back home I think I will have wheels put on 710 McKean avenue and then I will be contented. We have just received orders to move to a little town close by here so I will finish this letter to-morrow afternoon.

I don't know of much news to tell you. Mother, for it seems that all France is dead except the Cooties and you can't kill them for they are some lively things. Two of them can cause more disturbance than a dozen Boche. We still have our trucks and by the way things look we will have them for sometime. We have no idea when we will sail for home but I don't think I will get to the U. S. before July and maybe not then. I am located in a French house now and there is a little boy here about 3 1-2 years old writing a letter to his brother who is up in Germany. Mary's shorthand looks the same as his writing but nevertheless his letter will be appreciated if it can't be read.

I am on detached service for ten or fifteen days in this town and it sure is a nice small place. It is the nicest and cleanest town I have been in since I have been in France. We are hauling bridge material and our work now is easy. Our trips are from station to the Canal and all we have to do is drive. We only use one driver and by doing that we only have to work every other day. The days we are off the time is all our own and there is a Movie Show here and the best of it is that they show English and American pictures; they charge 15c and the show lasts for about 2 1-2 hours.

Well, mother, I will close for this time, hoping that we will be able to talk with each other in a short time. I remain, with lots of love to all

Your loving son, Joseph.

The following are copies of clippings from the New York Herald in France and sent home by Private Gass:

This, Too is Glory.

One day last March, Major (now Colonel) Gordon Robinson, commanding American Mission, Reserve Mallet, at that time said, "Remember glory can be won at the steering wheel of the camion as well as at the field piece or machine gun." This remark has been quoted many and many a time in formations by officers of the American Mission. Reserve Mallet, when addressing their men on tasks ahead of them or commending them on tasks just finished.

Driving through days and nights in mud and rain, some times from dawn to dawn and even longer, keeping awake when doing so seems a hopeless task working when the rations fail to come up; getting bruised and bloody with rolls of barbed wire that come undone; waiting at a shell-cross roads while the creeping barrage rolls nearer; waiting, not only with yourself to take care of, but in addition a five ton camion which is worth more to the government than you are—this, too, is glory, the men are told.

The Reserve Mallet.

This famous motor transport organization holds an unusual place in its connection with the American Expeditionary Forces. Composed of units both French and American, it has operated wherever the fighting has been hottest, whether in the Chemins des Dames offensive, when the American forces were in their infancy, or while holding the German hordes at Chateau-Thierry during the last days of enemy aggression. The mingling of French and American units has done much to cement a lasting friendship and understanding among motor transport men of the two nations.

The work has been hard and dangerous, as the lives sacrificed show. When the war's record is written, the Reserve Mallet and the part played in it by Americans will stand out as a bright spot in motor transport history.

Bulletin of A. E. F. Has Reserve Mallet Issue

Of the new crop of publications which have sprung up in the A. E. F. since the armistice, one of the most interesting is the Reserve Mallet issue of the American Field Service Bulletin. The magazine is illustrated with more than fifty pictures and drawings, the work of men in the Reserve Mallet.

An article by Colonel A. Piatt Andrews tells how the Reserve Mallet grew out of the old field service transport sections which started in 1917.

In the interesting figures of work done by the Reserve given in the magazine it is shown that from April 1, 1918, to January 1, 1919, its ammunition camions traveled a distance of twenty-six times around the world. From June to November the Reserve hauled 6,000,000 shells, almost twice as many as were fired by all the American artillery in the war. The Reserve has been serving since May, 1917, with the French armies.

A city paper speaks of 300 soldiers in New York being robbed of their money and valuables at a New York community service canteen. Thefts of the same character have occurred in similar canteens in other cities, and returning soldiers have been the victims. It seems a shame that such service canteens cannot have some police protection, some security for the men who while accepting hospitality are made the victims of some sneak thief.

A Fear Felt.

Said the facetious feller: "One of the greatest mysteries of my childhood is how Little Jack Horner succeeded with that plum pulling out affair with only one thumb."

Where Life Lasts Longest.

The average length of life is greater in Norway than in any other country. This is attributed to the fact that the temperature is cool and uniform throughout the year.

Making Conversation.

Always remember that many a man who inquires after your health really doesn't care a rap whether it's good, bad or indifferent.—Jameson's Gem.

Hang Him.

Said the almost philosopher: "When a man is the picture of despair naturally he is in an unhappy frame of mind."

Daily Thought.

Dead he is not, but departed—for the better, says a—Longfellow.

WHEN TO GATHER ROOTS AND HERBS

For medicinal purposes, roots and herbs should be gathered when their medicinal properties are at their best. For instance, roots of annual plants should be dug just before their flowering season, and roots of biennial or perennial plants after the tops have dried. All these things are taken into consideration in gathering the roots and herbs, many tons of which are used annually in preparing the most successful of all remedies for woman's ills, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

HONOR ROLL OF THE FIVE HUNDRED CLUB

Below are all the names of the "500 Club" subscribers that have been reported to headquarters up until Tuesday evening. It is especially requested that all solicitors receiving 500 subscribers will turn them in to headquarters as soon as possible in order that proper credit may be given. Arrangements have been made to have the names of all members of the 500 Club inscribed upon a special honor roll, furnished by the Treasury Department. This will be done by an expert penman and the honor roll placed on display at the Liberty Loan headquarters. After the completion of the loan campaign it will be suitably framed and presented to the local soldiers' organization to be hung upon the walls of their place of meeting. Thus not only will the members be properly honored, but in times to come when memories grow dim our noble boys will have no trouble in finding the names of those who subscribed $500 or more to "finish the job."

Shoemaker Owns First Victory Note

DAVID EPSTEIN, Lima, Ohio, shoemaker, is the holder of the first registered thousand dollar Victory Loan Note. He paid for it on April 2 before the interest rate or any of the terms of the investment were known.

Lima people say that in so doing, Epstein is only running true to form because they call him "champion all-round American."

Epstein has come mighty near to giving or investing his "all" in patriotic projects. In 1914 he voluntarily assumed the task of maintaining two French orphans until they become of age. He purchased $3,000 worth of Liberty Bonds in the second, third and fourth issues and until after the signing of the armistice refused to accept the interest on his bonds, contributing this interest instead to the

He has bought other liberty bonds at face value from Lima residents who wanted to sell them.

Epstein contributed $100 to the Lima War Chest and when the armistice was signed and two-thirds of all contributions were refunded, Epstein added enough to his refund to maintain two more French orphans for a year. He also sold his shoe repair business and his automobile in order to keep on helping in war work.

Epstein was born in Russia.

"That's why I can appreciate what American Liberty means," he says.

"America gave me a chance to make a decent living and as I am too old to fight I could do no less than help the country that helped me."

Left Congress To Fight—He Helped V Loan

Capt. Victor Heintz

Capt. Victor Heintz, Cincinnati, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism at Clerges, France, after he had left his seat in Congress to fight. He rescued a wounded fellow-fighter under fire. He has written the following plea for the Victory Liberty Loan.

By Victor Heintz

When the first Liberty Loan was offered I called attention to the fact that many of our young men were volunteering to give to their country 100 per cent of their possessions. I referred to the able-bodied young men without money and to whom physical fitness was everything. It was all that they had. It was their only means of obtaining a living. It was the one thing that stood between them and starvation.

Of those who gave 100 per cent to their country and went, some have had it all paid back, without interest, in that they are coming home safe and sound. Others made the supreme sacrifice and are being left behind, buried in a foreign land. Still others, not so fortunate, are coming back broken and shattered, a burden to themselves and friends for the rest of their lives.

And all this was done for love of country. That alone should be enough to induce us to DONATE all the money we have to the Government, as out bit in the war, but we are not now being asked to DONATE a penny. We are asked only to INVEST in the BEST, SAFEST and MOST ATTRACTIVE SECURITY ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH. It seems incredible that argument or pleading should be necessary. Good business is usually enough in itself to influence one in making an investment and good business is present in this offer to a superlative degree.

But there is something bigger than business. It is patriotism and duty—the duty we owe to the higher nationality. You whose sons and relatives came back unharmed should buy Notes with added enthusiasm and in the spirit of thanksgiving, and you whose kindred were left on the other side, or who will come back wounded, should invest what you can with the solemn pride that you, too, are doing your very utmost for the cause in which your loved ones made so great a sacrifice.

'Twas Tough on The Horse's Boudoir, But—

One of the Victory Loan tanks which are on tour in this Federal Reserve District put on a novel demonstration in North Fairfield, O.

The local chairman pointed out a big barn on a farm near town and asked the tank captain if the tank would demolish the barn.

The owner's permission was obtained and the tank and the crowd headed for the barn. The crowd stayed on the sidelines cheering as the tank crashed its way through the barn sides, leaving a structure looking more like a ragged arch than a boudoir for horses.

Leads Aces Flying For Victory Loan

Lieut. Luff
AMERICAN aces who have fought and vanquished Hun planes are flying over the Fourth Federal Reserve District to keep up interest in the Victory Loan campaign. They use two-seated bombing planes which by now would have been flying over German cities had not the armistice been signed.

Lieutenant Frederick E. Luff, their flight commander, holds the distinguished Flying Cross. He has five German planes to his credit. Rex L. Uden, former Cleveland advertising man, hero of 15 air combats, and J. V. Garver of Strassburg, Ohio, who made a golden record for trench strafing during the last days of the war, are among the flyers. Both are lieutenants.

These men have risked their lives day after day in the service of their country. They regard the flights they are to make now as just as sacred a duty as that they performed in France. They hope they may be the means of arousing the American people to the fact that while active hostilities have ceased, it is still their duty to put the Victory Loan over the top in such a tremendous way that the result will echo over the Rhine.

The Play Is Played

By William F. Kirk

The Play is played and the curtain falls
On a scene of bitterest pain and woe.
The Freeman's hosts and the Monarch's thralls
Have met and eddied like drifting snow.
The King has come to his overthrow,
And by Yankee hands was he overthrown!
Now, Yankee hearts, from highest to low,
Respond to the VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN!

'Tis your last proud chance to help your flag
At the end of a long and ghastly play.
The Bird of Freedom on yonder crag
Looks far and wide, and he looks YOUR way!
Hark to his screaming: "Pay, Pay, PAY!"
Now let your love for your flag be shown!
Our heroes carried that flag in the fray!
YOU carry the VICTORY LIBERTY LOAN!

Poor Excuses

"I'm exhausted with war work."

So were the boys who fought. But they didn't stop. They weren't tired. And theirs was real war work.

V V V V

"But I haven't the cash just now to lend."

Then lend your credit. The soldier gave up his present and even mortgaged his future. He gave for you and now you balk at lending your credit for him. Where is your patriotism?

V V V V

"I'll not subscribe to the Victory Liberty Loan. I might need my money for an emergency."

Emergency, eh? The war itself was an emergency. If it hadn't been won for you that would have been your real emergency.

STILL PLEAD FOR THE RIVER ROAD

The Roscoe Ledger says that a petition will be presented to the next grand jury for its approval to make an improved road from the end of the brick road at Spers to Coal Center going by way of Twilight and along a country road where hardly a handful of people live, past Howe cemetery cutting out entirely the big stretch of densely populated area along the river, including Dunlevy, Allsport, Stockdale, Roscoe and Elco. The Ledger says that the "necessity of all road improvements cannot be denied, but it appears to the people along the river that before a road is built through a barren territory there should be some tangible development toward the construction of the river road. The people of this vicinity without a doubt will favor the proposed road and would willingly appear and give testimony that it needs improvement. They favor all road improvement, but they have waited and pleaded these many years for the river road, and it is now a general feeling that their prayers should be answered."

MONESSEN IS ONE BIG MELTING POT

A telegram from the national capital says that the real melting pot of the United States seems to be Monessen, where the steel industry thrives according to the Bureau of Naturalization's figures.

Eighty per cent of the population—the largest of any city in the country—is of foreign birth. Practically every racial division and nearly all the larger countries are represented in his town.

Monessen, however, is fast cutting down this percentage as the result of an Americanization campaign. A member of each nationality has been appointed by the steel companies and the Department of Labor to make all of them real American citizens. Friendly rivalry has grown up among these races as to which will be the first to be 100 per cent American.

ENGAGEMENT IS MADE KNOWN AT CIRCLE MEETING

The engagement of Miss Leila Orange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Orange, to D. Earl Daniel, was announced at the meeting of the Young Ladies Circle of the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening at the home of the bride-elect's parents on Third Street. The dining room was beautifully decorated in Oriental style. From the shower tiny Japanese umbrellas were hung in which were hidden the announcement cards. A tasty luncheon was served. Favors were corsage bouquets of violets and sweet peas. Mr. Daniel is a member of this week's graduating class of the Western Theological Seminary of Pittsburgh.

KNEW AND LOVED STEVENSON

Old Resident of Tahiti Proud of His Association With the Famous Romanticist

In the town of Papeete, on the island of Tahiti, lives an old man named Donat, a former comrade of Robert Louis Stevenson when the famous romanticist was journeying through the South Sea Islands. Donat loves to tell of the days when the writer used to rest in his home and listen to the weird ghost tales which the old man told and which Stevenson wove into some of his stories.

Their friendship began when the writer rented a house to rest in after a trip through the Marquesas islands. On Donat's grounds were the only vegetable gardens in the island, the formation of which was mostly coral, sand and rubble. Each morning the old man would send to Stevenson's house a great basket of fresh vegetables, fruit and coconuts, and later when the author came to thank Donat for the gift the two would sit in the shade and talk for hours.

Nothing delights Donat more than to talk of his gentle friend and the days when they were together. He gives an intimate picture of Stevenson's simple life on the island, of his rambles on the beach among the coconut groves, of his friendly associations with the natives. When Stevenson left the island he invited Donat aboard his ship for dinner and presented him a valuable ring as a souvenir of their friendship. "He was a good man, a great gentleman," is Donat's tribute.

"Devil" Devlin, Veteran of the Plains, Now Sells Apples on Streets of New York

It is a long jump from selling apples from a little sidewalk stand in West 48th street to pumping a carbine during the height of Custer's last fight, but there's an old man in town who does it daily, if any one comes along to encourage him to make the journey. He is Frank Devlin, a little gray-haired, wrinkled apple man, who sits daily with his stock of apples. Yesterday, writes the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, he met a modern warrior wearing the Croix de Guerre who had just returned from overseas. The newly made veteran listened with respectful attention while the apple man showed him the way to handle a rifle. "For years the withered old man was 'Devil' Devlin, crack rider of the Fifth United States cavalry, and one of the twenty best horsemen in the United States army. It was 'Devil' Devlin who rode from Prescott, Ariz., to Dodge City, Kas., which took a matter of nearly three months, 1,110 miles in the saddle. Devlin was present at Custer's last fight and he declares that the Indian fighter of the plains could tell some things to the heroes of the A. E. F. about hard work and harder fighting, long hours and scanty rations.

MADE TO PAY FOR STONING AN AUTO

Elson Hommel of the Arcade theatre of Brownsville, has joined the crusade against small boys infesting small towns, who make a practice of throwing stones at automobiles.

A Bentleyville urchin hurled a stone at Mr. Hommel's Packard as he was driving through that borough the other day. The stone struck just beneath the left hand rear door and left quite a mark on the body of the car.

Mr. Hommel stopped the machine and after the urchin as if he were on the final lap of a six day race. The lad was caught and taken before a local magistrate. His parents were glad to pay for the damage done and the costs assessed by the justices.

It is planned to organize local communities throughout the county and to push the drive to a successful conclusion. As the county quota is small, no great trouble is anticipated in reaching the amount fixed.
